"High legal culture," the National Program says, is the foundation of a democratic society and an expression of the maturity of the legal system. ...It is a factor that actively influences various life processes in society, promotes the chipslaying of citizens, all social groups, ensures and strengthens the integrity and batartibility of society".

That is why it is difficult to draw attention to the fact that further improvement of the legal education and upbringing system in the development of the legal culture of citizens is in harmony with the interests of the individual, the state and society. At the same time, it will be necessary to achieve respectful attitude of state bodies, officials and citizens to the law and law, ensure the rule of Law, increase the legal literacy of citizens, take into account the interests of society and the state in the conduct of legal propaganda and propaganda, and, of course, rely on universal principles.

As recognized in the concept of further deepening democratic reforms in our country and the development of civil society, the rapid development of society from the path of democracy and the success of reforms carried out in this regard largely depend on the legal consciousness of people and the level of legal culture. High legal culture is the foundation of a democratic society and an indicator of the maturity of the legal system. Therefore, serious attention is paid to improving legal education and education in our country, the promotion of legal knowledge in society.

First of all, it can be said with pleasure that over the past period, our Constitution and laws have been adopted, which have embodied centuries-old legal culture values, the legal heritage of our ancestors, universal concepts and international legal norms about human rights, and textbooks, guides, reviews and popular legal literature have been created in all areas of law.

As you know, the formation of legal statehood in our republic, the rational organization of relations between the institutions of power and civil society, the modernization of all aspects of society, an important guarantee of the successful implementation of reforms in this direction, which is directly related to the high level of legal consciousness and legal culture, literacy of our citizens. Therefore, special attention was paid to raising the feeling of respect for the laws in people in the project. That is, in this program, to ensure the increase of social activity of the population in the interaction between citizens, society and the state, to effectively use the opportunities of citizens ' assemblies, NGOs, public associations and media in the further promotion of legal culture, to increase the printing of popular legal literature, to improve legal education methods, to establish a modern system of training and retraining, on the basis of world experience, important tasks such as raising the legal consciousness and legal culture of citizens are covered.

The content of the new edition of the program does not consist only in this. In it, the population, first of all, in young people to educate the qualities of love, loyalty, humanity to the motherland, conduct meetings and educational events that reveal the place of national traditions and values in our lives, comprehensively interpret the essence of reforms, adopted legislation, the importance of state programs, establish an effective propaganda system with the participation of intellectuals, instill, the tasks of organizing propaganda work on the basis of national and universal values are also reflected.

In general, large-scale measures are being taken in our country aimed at increasing the legal knowledge and culture of the population, especially young people. Since the goal is to establish a legal state, a free civil society, in this regard it is necessary to further strengthen cooperation with all state bodies and public associations and other civil society institutions, to further increase the responsibility of our compatriots.

In any society, there are at least three criteria that determine the extent to which democracy is. These are related to how aware the people are of the process of making laws and decisions, how much government decisions are controlled by the people, to what extent ordinary citizens are involved in the management of the state. As long as there is no shift in these three areas, all talk about democracy remains in vain. Such shifts are not work that will happen in one day, of course. Therefore, our country is undergoing step-by-step reforms in the economic, political and, above all, legal spheres, all of which are aimed at expanding the interests of citizens in this country, their participation in public administration. If in society all legal, democratic conditions are created for the realization of the political interests of citizens, the population itself willingly participates widely in the political life of the country. It should be noted that the democratic process of citizens' participation in political life in Uzbekistan was exacerbated by the adoption of the constitutional law "on the renewal and further democratization of Public Administration and strengthening the role of political parties in the modernization of the country."
