Education is life or death for us,
it is a matter of either salvation or destruction, or happiness or disaster.

Abdulla Avloni

Introduction:

From time immemorial, organizing the education of a perfect generation has been a noble dream of our people, an important demand and main goal of the social society, and an integral part of the nation's spirituality. This idea started not only individuals, but entire nations towards high development, encouraged them to achieve great achievements in the field of spirituality and enlightenment. A nation that does not dream of perfection and does not care about bringing up a perfect generation to adulthood has no future. Therefore, the growing importance of spiritual and moral values in our country puts raising a spiritually mature generation as an important issue on the agenda. "It should not be forgotten," says our first president, I.A. Karimov, "The foundation of our future is created in the fields of knowledge, in other words, the future of our nation depends on the education and upbringing of our children today." Because the combination of education and upbringing closely helps the formation of values such as patriotism, humanitarianism, nationalism, democratic and universal humanity in young people along with acquiring knowledge.

It is natural that the family, as the main link of the state, influences the outlook and behavior of children. The spiritual unity of family members is one of the first and main factors of the all-round development of young people. The family is the child's primary education school. Considering this, the two pillars of the family - moral and spiritual manners of the father and the mother, their exemplary behavior, good upbringing, experience and skills in raising children, diligence, sensitivity and demandingness should enrich children from a young age. plays an important role as a mirror in lib's growth.

Each family has its own and appropriate set of important rules for raising a child. It should also be mentioned that these rules can be said to be relatively general, because each child is a universe, each of them has its own personality, importance, mentality and behavior, so treat accordingly. needed. Therefore, the responsibility, skill, intelligence, and reputation of parents are important in education.

Every parent pays attention to the positive or negative changes in the child's upbringing, learns such theoretical and practical rules and follows them. After all, raising a child in a family is a very delicate and complex issue, which requires great decency and knowledge, great educational skills from parents. Child education is very delicate, it requires constant and regular practice without wasting time.

Analysis of literature on the topic

"Education cannot be separated from education, and education cannot be separated from education - this is an oriental view, an oriental philosophy of life." Our first president is I.A. Karimov. Abu Nasr Farabi received the title of "Muallimi-sani" ("Second teacher") and said about the education of young people: "If young people are inclined to acquire a profession, if they are interested, if this interest completely attracts them to this work, therefore, they will be true lovers of the profession, they will master its secrets perfectly," he says.

Research methodology

In the process of education, it is appropriate to take into account the age characteristics of the students. Age characteristics are anatomical, physiological (physical) and psychological characteristics characteristic of a certain age period. For example, the sense of responsibility can be formed in students studying in primary education, secondary education and secondary special, vocational education institutions. However, different methods are used for the formation of this quality at each stage.

In psychology, there are several classifications of "difficult to educate" children. The first group is children with strong negative social views; The second group is imitators of criminals. The third group is children who are ambivalent between positive and negative behavioral stereotypes, who understand their mistakes. The fourth group is those who obey children; The fifth group is those who entered by accident. It should be said that the role of the social environment in which they live, the family, the community in which they study, and the class is very important for children with difficult upbringing.

Analysis and results

Family education - raising children in the family by parents, guardians or adults plays an important role in the all-round development of the young generation. A permanent educational influence in family education is mental calmness in the family, a sincere attitude, a high level of parental authority, maintaining unity between family adults in making demands on children, paying special attention to the education of the child's personality to work, loving and honoring the child, a strict regime and day in the family. establishing an order, taking into account the child's age and personal characteristics, monitoring the changes in the child, supporting the qualities of independence and initiative in him, and so on. The more organized the family is, the more sincere the relationship between its members is, the more successful the family upbringing will be. In family education, the reputation of parents, their observation, sensitivity, and responsiveness have an important educational value. In family education, the educational process should not consist of boring, dry advice. Most of the child's life is spent in the family. Therefore, under the positive influence of existing traditions, customs, rituals and ceremonies, the child gradually matures. Tradition and ritual are powerful tools of family education.

Expected results can be achieved only if family upbringing is in perfect connection with social upbringing. Achieving success in family upbringing also depends on parents' possession of psychological knowledge, sharing of experiences on family upbringing, and active involvement of parents in educational activities. Every parent should have a deep understanding of their duties and responsibilities in raising a family. A normal family environment is a guarantee of a successful family upbringing. The absence of a father or mother in the family or the departure of one of them greatly harms the upbringing of children in the family. The power of their educational influence on the child is lost, the balance in family upbringing is disturbed. In such conditions, the child's heart is seriously injured, he becomes angry, angry, rude, rude, he does not trust adults, and his studies decline. Father's reputation is very important in family education.

It is impossible to achieve success in raising our children as well-rounded people without connecting the school with the family. That is why the joint educational activities between the school and parents are of great importance in family education. The opinions expressed in meetings of parents with teachers are especially valuable. Because they learn more about their children. Therefore, every parent who understands the essence of child education strives to strengthen the cooperation between the family and the school. Until the child graduates from school, parents should establish a close relationship with the school, master their child's lessons, be aware of their behavior, consult with the teacher and head of the class on educational issues, and inform the teacher and the head of the class about what the child is doing after school. On the other hand, the teacher and the head of the class should provide information about the child's studies, manners, behavior, and behavior at school to the parents, and solve the problems that arise together if necessary.

A parent whose child attends school must remain a member of the school community. The teacher and the head of the class should establish strong cooperation with the family of their student. Cooperation of parents with neighborhood activists and labor veterans is also important in family education. Family upbringing can be successful only if favorable conditions are created for the development of children in all aspects. Each family has its own characteristics in family education.

Summary

The role of education in the family is very important. As the child grows up in the family, he is brought up and educated. Of course, parents have a big responsibility in this. If parents pay attention to their child and are always engaged in it, know that the future of this child will be bright. And on the contrary, if it is neglected, it can go into different ways. Education and training are complementary blessings. There is a clear difference between education and training. Education is a part of upbringing. Education includes education, not the other way around. Therefore, education is perfect and comprehensive compared to education itself. The meaning of Islamic education is to build a perfect human personality in society from all sides, and this education includes spiritual, mental and physical aspects. It is very important to create opportunities for education and training for family members. It is necessary to pay attention to topics such as the fair and sincere attitude of the family to the children, mutual support, literary laughter, sports. A baby and an air of love in the family are also very important for all family members. By following educational traditions, family members can improve their skills and knowledge, develop themselves, and strengthen their future. They say that a bird does what it sees in its nest. Therefore, we think that there should always be a good character in the family who can be an example (personal model) for their children. Only then will we do something good for the future generation. Of course, a child who is well-educated in the family will have many benefits for the future. The range of thinking of a well-educated child is also much higher. Thus, the role of education in the family is effective and so important.
